

Pepacton School #5 and Miller Hollow #7

Pepacton School was referred to as the "big school". School group circa 1900.

Miller Hollow School #7

Located in the hamlet of Pepacton, the first school commissioner report for this school was filed in 1854 and the school remained open until the Colchester Schools' consolidation in 1938. The school house was purchased by the Pepacton Grange No. 1407 and they used the building for their meeting place until March 18, 1948 when the Board of Water Supply took possession of the building. The school house was demolished in the construction of the Pepacton Reservoir. The other school located in Pepacton was the Miller Hollow School #7; this school house was also taken in the Pepacton Reservoir construction along with Coles Clove School #8.
